

- Benefits technology
- Benefits communication
- Company cars & fleet
- Childcare & carers
- Financial education
- Flexible benefits
- Group risk
- Healthcare & wellbeing
- International benefits
- Pay, bonuses & reward
- Occupational pension
- Share schemes
- Staff motivation
- Tax & Legislation
- Voluntary benefits

- Blogs
- White Papers
- Webcast

Latest Issue

Read

Subscribe

Advertise

Health Matters 360 introduces Olympic-themed wellbeing programmes

2012-01-20

Health Matters 360 is introducing workplace health and wellbeing programmes aligned to the Olympic and Paralympic Games.

The health and wellbeing provider will work with previous Olympics' athletes to design corporate programmes to help employees achieve physical and emotional wellbeing.

The programmes can be tailored to each organisation's specific needs.

Anna Hemmings, the British marathon canoeist who competed in the Olympics in Sydney and Beijing, will lead the programmes with a team of former Olympic and Paralympic athletes.

The athletes will share their Olympic journeys and use their perspectives to help employees achieve the best performance in their work and lives.

Sarah Morgan, director and co-founder of Health Matters 360, said: "We are very excited by this opportunity to bring the experience and perspective of these elite Olympians to our programmes in 2012.

"Together with our expertise in corporate health and wellbeing, we are able to offer organisations a motivational experience that will benefit both employer and employee."

Read also Olympics can kick-start new benefits

Read more articles on health and wellbeing programmes

Related Articles

Healthcare & Wellbeing

- Health Matters 360 introduces Olympic-themed wellbeing programmes
20th-Jan
- Institute of Economic Affairs research: Promoting wellbeing at work through regulation is counterproductive
17th-Jan
- Nuffield Health research: A third of employees will go to work ill due to economy
17th-Jan
- University of Central Lancashire research: Employees turn to chocolate and booze to beat boredom at work
13th-Jan
- Grid research: Work-life balance biggest health issue for UK employers
6th-Jan
- EXCLUSIVE: Capita rolls out health screenings
4th-Jan
- International reward: Wellbeing strategy needs local input
3rd-Jan
- News analysis: New year rings in legislative changes
3rd-Jan
- Buyer's guide to employee assistance programmes
3rd-Jan
- New model emerges for private medical insurance
3rd-Jan

Author: Jennifer Paterson

Publisher: Employee Benefits

Date: 2012-01-20

- Email this item to a friend
- Printer friendly version
- Add a comment
- Receive new comments by email